

Cricket's greatest and most enduring rivalry is played between its two oldest protagonists, IB and HRD Department of Delhi School of Economics. Every year it's a ritual for us at the sports cell to find the best of HR vs IB as far as sports is concerned , this year the competition was fierce with difficult field sets with three players at slip from the very first delivery giving the batsman fumes of burned leather. But the captains of both the team were confident about their strategy and match went on to the as usual last over finish which we watched with bated breath.

But as the two teams returned to the stands everyone stood up to cheer and applaud. It had been an exciting match and the event retained the tittle of being the most popular event between the walls of Delhi school of economics. This match shall be remembered for a long time to come.
